

---

All-heart Environment

Shanghai All-heart Environment Development Center

The conception “All-heart environment” refers to the relationship between mentality and environment. It is obvious that greedy mentality will lead to the deterioration of environment, while charitable mentality upholding the harmony with the environment will beautify the natural environment. The heart of people in harmony with the environment means the common heart (our heart and their heart), the relationship between heart and material and between heart and ecology, the heart of material, the heart of thought. It also contains, of course, the original intention of many people in human society for the cause of sustainable development in the field of ecology and environment.

Multi-dimensional space resource theory has built up a four-dimensional and suitable natural science coordinate in order to classify the resources utilization into sustainable and non-sustainable resources. Moreover, this four-dimensional, suitable coordinate will fit geopolitics and economic development.

The purpose of putting forward the length of time dimension of resource utilization is to quantify the breadth and depth space resource, just like a ruler to measure on the time dimension of dynamic resources' essence. The division of breadth and depth space to resources has provided a coordinate for measuring the length of resources' time dimension.

Those who can utilize energy and other resources' depth space properly and scientifically in the future will get the key to develop harmoniously with the nature on human beings' resources utilization, the key to world peace and the essential material basis to control the world and human beings' destiny.